Figure 2: Preliminary versions of the maps of Tokyo (top left), Paris (bottom left), and Mexico City (right) displaying urban configurations in different colors. At this stage, the empirical research in each case study was completed, but the research team continued using the maps for data analysis within and across the cases.